GOVERNMENT AID TO KENTUCKY HIGHWAY.

Engineers And Bridge Builders' Assistance Promised To McCreary And Terrell.

Washington, March 17.—Following a conference with Secretary of Agriculture Houston and Dr. Logan Waller Page, director of the office of public roads, Gov. James B. McCreary and R. C. Terrell, Kentucky State Highway Commissioner, received the assurance that the department of Agriculture will assign four civil engineers and a corps of bridge builders to assist the state authorities in improving the highways of Kentucky.

Gov. McCreary and Mr. Terrell, spent a full two hours discussing the needs of proper highway construction in Kentucky with Secretary Houston and Dr. Page and they left the Department of Agriculture elated over the generous offer of the Federal authorities to assist the State in improving its roads.

Gov. McCreary called at the White House Tuesday morning. He was introduced to the President by Senator James.

The President let it be known the other day that he would not receive visitors for three weeks, in order that he could devote all his time to studying the troublesome international problems, but he made an exception to his rule when he learned that Kentucky's chief executive was in town and desired to call at the White House.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube. Faith Gives Confidence

By REV. J. H. RALSTON
Secretary of Correspondence Department
Meady Bible Institute, Chicago

TEST—And my believe and are sure that... (The text is partially obscured and difficult to read.)

Possibly the generation to which the words of the twelfth century belong has more to disturb its faith than a any preceding one. There may be no rejection of the testimony of the senses, of intuition, or of faith itself, but the appeals to faith come from more sources than formerly.

The Appeal of Religion Has Changed.
In a former day, the appeal was to the acceptance of the evangelical teachings of the New Testament accepted by all denominations, and sometimes to the particular doctrines of the denominations, but now it is made to the acceptance of certain caricatures of Christianity known as Christian Science, Russellism, theosophy, etc., and sad to say, with a very large response. This indicates that man is naturally religious. He wants something that will meet the demands of the spiritual craving within, and he is quite apt to take up with something that takes on the name of Christian, or that professes to be biblical, and yet ridicules evangelical Christianity and offers a substitute for it, however fraudulent it may be.

The Search for Certainty.

Many are asking for certitude, or certainty, in the things of religion. How is a man to gain this certainty? In this consideration let us first note that there are various spheres of knowledge — physical, philosophical and spiritual. In the physical sphere the senses must be the witnesses, in the philosophical reason, and in the spiritual faith, although in the spiritual faith does not reject the witnessing of the senses and reason. In the physical sphere the testimony of the senses may be misleading, as one man may say an object is of one color, while another man says it is of a different color, the fact being that one of these is certainly color blind, and it may be that both of them are so. As far as philosophy is concerned, reason may take the reins in her mouth and plunge into the abyss of infidelity and atheism as was the case in France a century ago.

Faith Must Not Be Blind.

While the senses or reason may not apprehend what faith needs to apprehend, yet faith makes recognition of the testimony of history, personal experience, and of any revelation that God sees fit to make. In the case before us the disciples said that they believed and were sure that Jesus was the Christ, the son of the living God, the most important fact for man to apprehend, the minimum of Christian belief. We have said that faith rests on certain things that may not belong to the supernatural. The many false forms of religion to which we have referred, make strong appeals, that is, in the vehemence of them, and apparently in their sincerity, but when we ask for something in connection with them for our faith to rest upon, they have really nothing to give, except the ipse dixit of some man or woman who has repudiated all that we have revered and honored in the past. While there may be some facts presented, as in the alleged cases of healing, there is no appeal to that which is behind us, the experience of millions of Christian people through the centuries.

A Definite Faith.

The faith of the disciples was very definite. "We believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the son of the living God." The evidence of this definite faith is abundant as may be proved by the men who expressed it being perfectly willing to certify it by the sacrifice of wealth, position, and even life itself. That adherents of false forms of Christianity have made great sacrifices will not be questioned, but in connection with Christian sacrifice we have a law that has existed through twenty centuries, and the blessings that have come out of this spirit of sacrifice and realized by the individual have certified to the genuineness of the faith—they have new wealth, new position, and forestates of the life that is not only eternal but in harmony with the life of God.

The agent in this assurance is nothing less than the holy spirit of God which indicates supernatural origin. "No man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the holy ghost." Here is where the religion of Jesus Christ and the apostles is to be differentiated from any other religion. Notwithstanding that it is from above it does not relieve from personal responsibility, but the blessings in bearing that responsibility are so infinitely above anything that the world has to offer, that the responsibility may be forgotten.

DOUBLE WEDDING

Wednesday In Which The Brides Are Sisters.

Marriage licenses were issued Tuesday to Lewis S. Fuller and Miss Inez Boyd and Mack Martin and Miss Ivie Boyd. The young ladies are sisters.

GLASS TO STOP BULLETS.

Powdered glass forming a layer between two moderately thin plates of steel has been proved much more effective than a thick plate of steel for the purpose of stopping bullets. Although this method of arming motor cars for the front has not been adopted by the British makers, it has worked out successfully with the Belgians. The new British motor armor plate, which is only a quarter of an inch thick, has, however, withstood severe tests. When the Belgian armored automobiles are badly injured by shot and shell they are sent to London for repair.

LATEST IN VEHICLES.

Those who enjoy the novelty of riding in a jinriksha, but who would enjoy a little more speed than the legs of a coolie are capable of making, will be interested in the "cyclo-riksha," which was first put on the market in Shanghai. A basket-chair cycle combination, it is propelled by a coolie riding behind. He is completely hidden from the passenger. The "cyclo-riksha" is nicely upholstered, has good springs, and is fitted with pneumatic tires.

Degeneration of the House.
No jokes are better appreciated than those that are made unwittingly by sober-minded men. Not long ago a solemn member of congress was holding forth in that body in a pessimistic strain about what he felt to be a great falling off in the character and standing of that august body. "Since I came into this house four years ago," he announced with the utmost gravity, "the confidence of the public in it has much diminished."

TENNESSEAN

Finced $40 in City Court Last Tuesday.
